

NON-TECHNICAL QUESTIONS

1. Who knows you the best?

I think no one knows you better than you yourself. So I knows myself the best.

2. Who is your role model and why?

My role model keeps changing with time. But one thing that remains constant in every role model is determination to achieve something.

3. What would your friends say about you?

My friends would say that I am really sweet. But the thing is that I don't think so. My friends consists of more old friends than new like they have been my friends since 4-6 years. And one thing they all feel is that I am quite funny like I don't crack a joke but maybe the way i speak, they are always entertained.

4. What is the thing you'd never say to another person?

Anything that person is really sensitive about.

5. What is your greatest achievement?

I don't think I have achieved anything worth highlighting till now.

6. What is your greatest failure?

When I loose my temper and get impatient and when my thoughts and actions are controlled by my heart and mind.

7. What did you learn from your greatest failure?

That these things will never contribute to my overall growth.

8. What would you like to change about yourself?

My short temperament and unfocused-careless-lazy behaviour.

9. If something in your house breaks, what is the first thing you do?

Maybe I will first try to collect the pieces so that no one gets hurt.

10. What is the greatest obstacle you're facing right now?

Time management and focused attitude towards important stuffs.

11. How do you like to "waste" your time?

By searching how to make a website.

12. What made you want to apply for this role?

AI and python as this is the ongoing trend.

13. How open are you to the idea of doing things outside your job description?

Not so much. I mean I would first want to do things what my job description says and after that I won't mind learning new and feasible things.

14. Describe a time when you recognized that you were unable to meet multiple deadlines.

What did you do about it?

I would leave that thing which I think i not possible to complete and would try to give my best in rest of the things.

15. Give an example of how you work in a situation where you must prioritize and multitask without supervision.

I would divide my time for things that need how much time to be done.

16. Tell me about a day when everything went wrong. How did you handle it?

There have been a lot of situations where everything went wrong but I am very bad at handling that situations so I ended up being too much stressed.